3. Observation:

The way the appellant files number of applications repetitively and contending that he has a right to do so, shows he is bent upon harassing the public authority, without any concern for wastage of public time he is causing by his repeated applications and appeal. His attitude establishes that most of his applications are similar to these vexatious and repetitive applications.

Appellant took several chances to present his case, but could not specify why he was unhappy or dissatisfied with the information furnished, and what specific information was to be furnished.

In addition to this, the respondent stated that appellant never received information dispatched by them. The appellant has deliberately avoided/refused the receipt of reply/information sent by the public authority and the same was done at the time of hearing today.

Decision:

The Commission considers this case as the case of repetitive use of RTI assuming the proportion of harassment to the public authority and reckless abuse of RTI. An applicant or appellant repeating the RTI application or appeal either once or multiple times, suppressing the fact of earlier application and receipt of the answer, the PIO of the public authority may reject it forthwith after intimating it along with reasons.

It is this Commission's view that the RTI application in this instance had been adequately addressed. There is no further cause for action and this appeal case is herewith CLOSED.
